Derangement of the Eowels, Liver and Stomach

This is generally occasioned by some irregularity of the stomach and bowels, which, if not quickly attend of of frequently terminates statily. A few does of the red mous fils never fail to give tone to the stomach regularity to the secretions, and purity to the fluids. Vertical dimess of sight and other indications of approaching apoplexy, are on frely dissipated by a course of this admirable medicine.

Scrofula and all Skin Diseases.

For all skin disease, howeve inveturate, these medicines are asovereign remedy. While the Fills act upon the blood, which they pu lify, the ointment passes through the pores of the sin, and cleanse every structure, as water saturates he soil or as sait penetrates meat. The whole physical machinery is thus rendered healthy, regular and vicerous.

No medicine will cure colds of long duration or such as are settled upon the chest so quickly as these famous Pills. Even in cases where the first stage of asthmas has appeared these Pills may be relied on as a certain and never failing remedy, particularly if the Ointment be simultaneously well rubbed into the chest and throat night and moraling.

Thise compliants may sometimes be considered trifling put it should be borner in mind that by inattention and neglect, they often end most seriously. GRADUATE OF MARVARD
College, Mass.
OFFICE AND RESIDENCE:—Douglas street,

Wednesday Morning, Oct. 13, 1869. Plain Words on Home Affairs. However unromantic and unpopular with some it may be to revert to the threadbare subject of Retrenchment in the Public Service we cannot but think that a few plain words will not be altogether out of place. And, we confess, it requires no little courage to face the subject. For years has it been the burden of popular complaint. In the press and in the Legislature the changes have been incessantly rung upon it. Every "Speech from the Throne" has contained great swelling promises with regard to it. Yet to-day we find the Civil List very much as it was at the beginning, while we find the Colony in a less favorable condition to beer the expense. This constitutes one of the most important and, at the same time, least agreeable subjects that will shortly demand the attention of the new Governor. It is a subject upon which, one would imagine, public opinsion must by this time be tolerably well matured, and we venture to think that the uncertain sound, the discordant note occasionally heard on this question from a section of the colonial press finds no echo in the popular mind. Let the subject be approached in a spirt of sober honesty, and with due regard to the public interest, on one hand, and justice to the public service, on the other. It is not the most agreeable duty which falls to the lot of a merchant, when he finds that his establishment and expenses are out of proportion to his means and, in fact, his need, to cut down the list of clerks and assistants and the want of sufficient moral courage to do this promptly has left many an amiable, well-meaning man to drift into the Bankrupt Court. The people are averse, and, doubtless, the head of the Executive will be equally averse to any pash and over measure of retrenchment. The general public will be in favour of an under, rather than an over measure. The desire of the people will be to retain as many of the public servants as can be employed with advantage to the Colony, and as the straitened financial circumstances of the Colony will justify us in paying. There are two principles which must form the test, the guage of any measure of retrenchment in the public service: the efficiency of that service, and the capacity of the Colony to pay the civil list. It is easy to conceive a case in which the former of these should be made to bend in some measure to the latter, where efficiency must even be in some degree sucrificed to necessity. It has been said, and not without some show of reason, that this Colony has been over-governed. Under-government would be infinitely preferable to finan-cial ruin. It were better that the Col-ony should be just a little bit under-governed for a tew years, than that an expensive civil list should leave no expensive civil list should leave no means of undertaking much needed public works, works, too, of a highly reproductive kind, works for want of which large interests are materially suffering. Of course there is not banks ruptey staring us in the face. Numerically weak as the Colony is, it has demonstrated its wonderful revenue. producing capacity. But if, with the maximum of taxation, there is barely enough produced to pay the interest on the public debt, and the pensioners on the public revenue, our case is scarcely better than that of one tottering on the verge of bankruptcy. In order to colonial wellheing a certain amount of re-productive public expenditure would appear to be absolutely essential. If we keep on for a few more years paying every dollar away in current expenses and doing absolutely nothing calculated either to employ labor or promote per-manent development, the Colony wil continue to dwindle down, as it unques-tionably has done in the past, until it reaches a stage of existence which may not imply be defined as "the small end of nothing." It has been said, and well said, that "Governments exist for the people." In this Colony the axiom would appear to be reversed. The people, one would be led to believe, exist for the government. Of course, in these remarks we have left Confederation wholly out of view. If it should turn out that the Colony is at once to undergo such a sweeping constitutional change the whole case, as respects finan-cial retorm, will be altered; for Con-federation will bring with it a complete net of machinery which will at once place the purse-strings in the hands of the tax payers and relieve the Governor of a disagreeable duty. Should this change, however, be less imminent, the people will expet, and have a right to expect, that when the Esti-mates for 1870 come down from the Executive they will exhibit such a margin for expenditure in public works and public enterprises as will have a ten-dency to re-establish public confidence and colonial prosperity.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY .-- The Legislature of Washington Territory met at Olympia on the 6th inst. His Excellency Governor Flanders read a message which occupies four closely printed columns of the Standard, Upon the San Juan question His Excellency is particulary pronounced. He says as the treaty tran-mitted to the U. S. Senate refers the question to the Swiss Republic, it is hoped it will be rejected, and he recompends that the U. S. Government "should at once give notice to the Government of Her Britanio Majesty, of our intention to terminate the joint occupation of San Juan Island, and that the laws of Washington Territory will be enforced on that island." His Excellency's mole of settling this vexed question certainly possesses the merit of being simple and derivive. There would, in fact, appear to be but one defect about it; and that is the absence of the require power to enforce the laws of Washington Territory on San Juan Island. Governor Flanders closely printed columns of the Standard, Upon on San Juan Island. Governor Flanders must remember that George Francis Train is not in these parts now. The message is not in these parts now. The message concludes with the following not overdrawn allusion to the prospects of the Sound:— "On Puget Sound will be built a city from whose wharves ships will sail to every ocean whose what we sings will connect with every port on the Coast, with the Pacific Islands and with Asia, a city that will compete suc-cessfully with San Francisco for the control of the commerce of the Pacific, when that commerce shall be a hundred fold greater

OUR OWN NORTH WEST .- Our Canadian contemporary of the London Western Advertiser has been reading Seward's Alaska speech, and has written a leading article upon it. The following is the concluding paragraph:—"The ex-Secretary's speech is pleasant reading, but for Canadians it has more than merely literary interest. If the climate and soil of Alaska are so endurable. climate and soil of Alaska are so endurable.

•how infinitely better must be our North West, which in comparison, is a southern latitude; and what capabilities of comfort and civil zation may be conceeled in its now remote and comparatively unknown borders! Mr Seward is a firm believer in the Monroe Dectrine. He covers Ritish Columbia, which lies between the two US territories of Washington and Alaska. But the Dominion can't spare it. Like Ontario, which exacts tribute from the traffic between the Eastern and Western States. British the Eastern and Western States, British Columbia will benefit by the advancement and enterprise of her neighbors north and south."

FRAUD in India has now gone as far as the manufacture of wild beasts, for the purpose of cheating the government. Premiums are paid by the Indian government for slaying wild beasts; so tigers, bears and leopards are made to go as far as they can. First the skin is sent in with a skull of wood litted into the is sent in with a skull of wood fitted into the head; secondly, the real skull is brought forward; and sometimes, as a third resource, the real uger or bear is dispensed with and the skull of the hog or juckal is tendered, provided with false teeth and covered with a pigskin, moulded on a real tiger's head. Some of the monsters are beasts of straw.

ADIEU TO CHIGNON .. . The Empress has decreed that high puffs and frizettes shall no longer exist. The long chatelaine braids looped at the back of the head and falling to the shoulders, are hereafter the style. There is an evident trace of the changes in the Emis an evident trace of the changes in the Empress' sentiments in these modes of hair dressing and the fashions which follow them. In her brilliant prime she emulated the splendors and frivolites of Marie Antoinette's court and the minauderies of La Vallerie and Pompadour. In her pensive and graceful decline she reverts to the stately and exclusive manner of the ancient chatelaines.

Among the selections are 'The Abbot's Oak; 'The Convict's Return' Casual Acquaintances' 'The Cause of the Trial,' 'The Trial' and 'The Elderly Naval LANGFORD LAKE MYSTERY .- Are no further exertions to be made toward unraveling the horrid mystery of Langford Lake? Has Baker left no relatives or friends in California or here who feel sufficiently interested to take up the threads of evidence where they were dropped by the Coroner's inquiry and weave them into a mesh for the discomfiture of the red-handed villains who slew that lone wayfarer? Baker's fate may be the fate tomorrow of any one whom business or pleasure may call to Goldstream or Leech River.

THE COLONIAL QUESTION .- Elsewhere will be found a very able and interesting letter, which we clip from a late copy of the London Times, and which will well repay a perusal. The ground put forward with so much force by the writer is not for the most part new in these columns, and there are few colonists who will not concur with "L. L. M." in thinking that there is nothing one-sided or unfair in the Imperial Government extending material protection and support to the colonies.

The Mother Country and the Colonies.

[From the Times]

TO THE EDITOR LONDON TIMES .- Sir, The present attitude of the Imperial The present attitude of the Imperial Government towards its colonial dependencies is watched with deep interest in every quarter of the globe. As an from date, they will be sold at Public Auc-Englishman, residing in South Africa, I from date, they will be sold at Public Auc-Englishman, residing in South Africa, I was Street, to realize storage and other trymen a few of the opinions and arguments I hear used by the colonists on this important question. The startling ananimity prevailing among statesmen of the colonist on this important question. The startling ananimity prevailing among statesmen of the colonist on the c all parties on this point, and your own concurrence in their views, will not, I think, prevert your allowing the colonial voice to be heard in its own defence.

The colony of the Cape of Good Hope is threatened with the immediate removal of the Imperial troops, and even with the disbandment of that purely local corps, the Cape Mounted Rifles, We have every prospect of so n being left to the protection of the frontier police, a small irregular colonial force, numbering a few hundreds, whose duty it will be to patrol a border at least 1,000 miles in length, and to keep the peace between the colonists and the native tribes, the latter numbering, per-haps, 100,000 able-bodied men.

Those who recollect the savage and sanguinary nature of former Kaffir wars will admit that our position in case of an outbreak will be extremely perilous. and that, making every allowance for differences of race and disposition, the horrors of the Sepoy rebellion may possibly at a future day find a parallel in South Africa.
'And why,' ask the colonists, 'should we be summarily deprived of the protection afforded by Her Majesty's forces? We are as truly her liege subjects as the Scotch, and far more loyal than the Irish. Our Governor is appointed by her, permission being graciously granted us to pay his salary. There is not an appointment in our Civil Service independant of her confirmation. Our local Judges are hers and we cannot even have the pleasure of indulging in law without our suits going finally ben fore her Privy Conneil. No member of our Parliament can take his seat without swearing allegiance to her, nor can any hostile vote of both Houses conbined eject her elected and irresponsiple officials.

To all this there is the usual retort, 'You To all this there is the usual retort, 'You are not subject to Imperial taxation; you cannot, therefore, expect Imperial protection.' But colosists are unconvinced by this argument. 'Taxation and representation go together,' they reply; 'you have not offered us Imperial representation, you cannot demand Imperial taxation. We pay no Imperial taxes it is true, but you pay no colonial ones. We are taxed nearly as beavily as you, but it go s to Her Majesty's Colonial and not to he Imperial exchequer. Throw our contributions into the general reasary of our contributions into the general reasory of the Empire, and you could no longer dispute our right to the protection of the army.' This, it may be said, is impracticable. It cannot be called upprecedented. No one has disputed the right of loyal Irishmen to pro-tection, jet, is it out a fact that they do not pay all the Imperial taxes? Does not taxa-tion fall with a lighter hand on Ireland than In order to carry out the present policy to its legitimate conclusion we assert that if the

its legitimate conclusion we assert that if the colocies of Great Britsin merit support from her army, her commerce should no longer receive the protection of the navy.

'What we maintain,' they say, 'is that so long as we owe you allegiance—so long, but no longer—you owe us protection. Whether we pay a little more or a little less, and into which of the two exchequers our contributions go, are arguments equally beside the question, and the demand that will sooner or later be made is Protection or sooner or later be made is Protection of Freedom. This freedom, if concoded, would not ruin England nor benefit us; but would England concede it? Is she prepared to make rivals of her own off-pring, and to lock on unmoved while we contract alliances and adjust tariffs with other countries?" I cannot The colonists do not see that any reductior is contemplated in the numerical strength of the British Army. The forces, it would seem, are to be withdrawn from the extremi-ties of the Empire, and concentrated in that small seagirt island, where God grant civil strife may never come, and to the invasion of which the accumulated resources of the great Napoleon were found unequal.

Why is this contrallation of leaf to give

Why is this centralization? Is it to give England a more commanding position among European States, and thus enable her to join in continental quarrels? Should this be the result of the present line of action, the British tax-payer will live to rue the day he consented, from economical motives, to reconsented, from economical motives, to remove the troops from the colonies, and thus counterance a policy, so eminently penny wise and pound foolish.

Again: sir, it may reasonably be asked, will the effectiveness of the British soldier be promo ed by the change?

Are sham fights at Brighton and gay reviews at Aldershot better schools for the movels and describes the extractive and the side of the extractive and the side of the extractive and the side of the extractive and the extrac

THE CALIFORNIA POWDER WORKS,

Extract from Report of Committee of Judges on Class 5 is the Sixth Industrial Exhibition of the California Mechanics' Institute, 1868.

Your Committee did not subject to proof the sames of powder exhibited at the Fair, but went to the different magazines, and themselves selected samples selected from parkages destined for trade.

The various samples thus obtained, embrating Sporting, Cannon, Musket and Blasting Powjer, were subjected to divers proofs, the chief of which, and that upon which we most religid, was with the 'Eprouvette' mortar charged with 1 ounce of powder and a twenty-four pound ball, TWO YEARS RIGOROUS IMPRISONMENT Bearing Labels in imitation of Mesers CROSSE & BLACK WELL's, SHAIK BACHOO was sentenced, by the Subur. ban Magistrate at Scaldah, to Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent review of the property of pulmonary complaints. Through a long representation, as it has become atter kinds of the races of men it has risen high among most of the races of men it has risen high among most of the races of the lungs and throat, have made it known decions of the lungs and throat, have made it known decions of the lungs and throat, have made it known decions of the lungs and throat, have made it known decions of the lungs and throat, have made it known decions of the lungs and throat, have made it known decions of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this anticlote for them. Although settled, Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the discase seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the panient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing cise could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.
